As a senior member of the environmental law bar, you are seeking a deeper understanding of both the Aboriginal issues that are having a greater influence on your work as environmental counsel and the increased prospect of representing clients claiming or defending damage claims in respect of contaminated land. This roundtable program affords you an opportunity to take part in advanced level, facilitated discussion with your peers on these and other issues in environmental law.

Attendance is designed exclusively for those with a minimum of 7 years of concentrated practice experience in the area under discussion.

You will learn about

Damages for Contaminated Land

- Cousins v. McColl-Frontenac Inc. at the Supreme Court of Canada (leave to appeal granted)
- Compare/contrast with Tridan

Aboriginal Consultation and Environmental Law

- Obligations to consult
- Emerging Aboriginal issues in waste, infrastructure, energy, natural resources and land development projects

Facilitators include:

Juli Abouchar, C.S., Willms & Shier Environmental Lawyers LLP

Bryan J. Buttigieg, C.S., Miller Thomson LLP

David Estrin, C.S., Gowling Lafleur Henderson LLP

Jim Harbell, C.S., Stikeman Elliott LLP

C.W. Daniel Kirby, Osler, Hoskin & Harcourt LLP

Barry Weintraub, Rueter Scargall Bennett LLP

Working in small groups with a facilitator, you will engage in discussion of two selected leading edge topics. Following these sessions, the full group will assemble for a panel presentation designed to further explore the issues that have been raised in the smaller groups or to introduce new topics of particular interest. This format offers a unique CLE experience, particularly for those outside of the larger firms, who may not have frequent opportunities to interact and share best practices with their senior level colleagues.
