

New Air Emission Challenges for the Auto Parts Industry
Thursday, January 27, 2005
DoubleTree International Plaza Hotel, Toronto

Ontario's Ministry of the Environment has announced plans for a major revamping of industrial air emissions regulations, introducing new approval requirements, updated standards for air and odour emissions, and requirements to use new, complex U.S. EPA dispersion models. Complying with the new air regime requires familiarity with new laws, regulations, models and guidelines.

This one day conference features speakers with experience and technical knowledge that will help you understand the new regime and anticipate and solve the potential compliance issues before they affect your bottom line.

Speakers will cover the legal, environmental and engineering challenges of the coming regulatory changes. Willms & Shier Environmental Lawyers LLP has worked with many APMA members to resolve complex approval and compliance issues. Rowan, Williams, Davies & Irwin (RWDI) is known world-wide for expertise in industrial air emissions measurement, monitoring and engineering solutions for industry.

AGENDA

7:45 –8:30 am	Registration
8:30 –8:45 am	Opening Remarks, Gerry Fedchun, APMA
8:45 –9:45 am	New Air Emissions Regime – Implications for Auto Parts Manufacturers Doug Petrie, Willms & Shier Environmental Lawyers LLP
9:45 –10:15 am	Networking Break
10:15 –11:15 am	Air Approvals – New Standards, Certificates and ESDM Requirements Ben Coulson, M.A.Sc., P.Eng., Air Quality / Noise Specialist, RWDI
11:15 –12:15 pm	Updating Dispersion Models – Can They Upset Your Compliance Record? Ben Coulson, M.A.Sc., P.Eng., Principal / Air Quality Specialist
12:15 –1:15 pm	Lunch
1:15 –2:15 pm	Compliance and Liability Challenges – Adverse Effects, Noise, Odours, Dust Doug Petrie, Willms & Shier Environmental Lawyers LLP Scott Penton, B.A.Sc., P.Eng., Air Quality / Noise Specialist, RWDI
2:15 –3:15 pm	When The Regulators Won't Listen – Appealing Approvals and Orders Marc McAree, Willms & Shier Environmental Lawyers LLP