This program will focus on the “nuts and bolts” practice issues that will help you and your real estate clients survive in today’s changing economic climate.

Real estate practitioners will teach you how to protect yourself when your client is in trouble and can’t close, how to avoid saying and doing the wrong thing and thereby prejudicing your client, and how to tender in the electronic registration system.

Now in our sixth year, this comprehensive two-day summit continues the teaching tradition that has been described by participants as an outstanding program with exceptional speakers, topics and materials.

You will learn about

- what real estate lawyers need to know about bankruptcy and insolvency
- troubled deals and how to protect yourself and your clients
- tenants and powers of sale
- PPSA defaults
- new developments affecting demand loans
- updates on the new client identification and verification requirements
- remedies upon lease defaults
